At the third annual Jackson Hole Film Festival in Wyoming, Harrison Ford and Calista Flockhart came in from their ranch to check out award winner "Stephanie Daley," produced by Ford's longtime assistant Samara Koffler. Actress Thora Birch hit some of the more than 80 independent films screened over the five-day festival, then sneaked away to the nearby Snake River for a whitewater adventure. Pierce Brosnan and Keanu Reeves (not together, but there on the same evening), sampling the incredible fare at Wolfgang Puck's latest hotspot, the Cut steakhouse at the Regent Beverly Wilshire Hotel. Marcia Cross, in sweat pants and baseball cap, pushing her cart through the Costco near Marina del Rey. Thandie Newton and Brett Ratner, deep in conversation on a couch in the lobby of the Chateau Marmont, perhaps discussing a role for her in Ratner's next flick, "Rush Hour 3." Annette Bening, keeping in great shape, running with her St. Bernard on the Tree People Walk in Wilacre Park in Studio City. Kevin Spacey alone with his cigarette on the patio at Social Hollywood, Jeffrey Chodorow's latest trendy place to dine on Sunset Boulevard. Party boys Owen Wilson, Jude Law and Robert Downey Jr., all hanging out at the Roosevelt Hotel's Tropicana pool bar, along with David Spade and his dad. Newlyweds Christina Aguilera and Jordan Bratman, munching at Magnolia's on Sunset Boulevard.
